of the Senate earlier than had been anticipated. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin submitted a resolution soon after the Senate met to-day reciting that an investigation was in progress in Illinois and that some important new testimony had been given and authorizing an investigation by a select committee of five Senators, three Republicans and two Democrats. The members of the proposed committee were named in the resolution, all of them being newly elected Senators.

Senator Lorimer said he believed the House would send the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senate he also is doubtful. "Not from any personal knowledge of how certain members are going to vote upon it, but only from the impression gained in the atmosphere of the Senate I do not think that there is any great enthusiasm for reciprocity there," he said. "I have heard that several Democratic Senators have expressed themselves as opposed to it."

The Senator Lorimer said he believed the House would send the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senate in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the Senate in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the Senator is the senator and the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senate in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the Senator is the senator in the senator in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the senator in the senator is the senator and the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senator and the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senator and the senator in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the senator is the senator and the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senator and the Capadian reciprocity measure to the Senator in some form, but whether alone or tacked to a depoint of the senator and the Senator is senator. Senator Stone of Missouri, who was at the White House to-day, said that a reopening of the Lorimer case would be necessary. "The testimony in the legislative investigation in Springfield is so ugly," he said, "that it seems to me the Senate must take notice of it. The proprieties of the situation may influence the Senate to wait until the investigation by the Illinois Legislature is finished, but the testimony brought out at Springfield will against the resolution sets forth that "a former President of the United States, has declared that he took the strip because it Weaver, Coast Artillery with rank of Brigadier-General—Col. the Illinois Legislature is finished, but the testimony brought out at Springfield will undoubtedly be brought officially to the notice of the Senates.

One of the criticisms of the actions of Senator La Follette in bringing his resolution in to-day was that he did not wait until the legislative investigating committee had proceeded further with its inquiry. Many witnesses are yet to be called and no one can foresee just what the future may develop, in the opinion of many of the Senators.

house, 46 East Twenty-fifth street. The meats were fixed up in various ways. Springbok was made to resemble soup, hippo meat became "South African croquettes," and so on. At the bottom of the menu card was the explanation in the terms of American meat of what you tried to think you were eating. Great kori bustard you were told was

South African for turkey, koodoo equalled beef and dik dik was nothing but lamb. Capt. Fritz Dequesne, late of South Africa, who furnished the meats, said he guaranteed that no one could tell the difference between the means from the two countries. That was not exactly the truth, for it all tasted a little gamey and you could tell it had had an ocean voyage. But there was a good flavor to it and all wanted more.

For fear that some of the diners might think African meat was so much like American meat that they would doubt it really had come from another continent the entertainment committee had a photograph of the packing box the meat came in showing the postmarks on it from Mombasa in German East Africa to New York.

The box when it reached New York on the Kronprinz Wilhelm had in it fifty pounds of dried meat and fifty pounds of refrigerated meat. It was shipped some time ago to Capt. Duquesne by his brother from Kilimanjaro, also in German East

The way the Captain happened to have the meat sent to him was this: He is now in this country trying to get Congress to appropriate money to import from Africa animals which he thinks if placed in this country in their natural environ-ment will be of great service in giving meat to thousands and making something out of what are now waste deserts or

SENATE DEMOCRATIC REVOLT. Discord Over the Election of Martin as Minority Leader Continues.

WASHINGTON, April 6.- Democratic discord in the Senate continues. About fifteen Senate Democrats met yesterday and declared unalterable opposition to the election of Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia as minority leader. The revolt included all of the new Senators except O'Gorman of New York, Martine of New Jersey and Pomerene of Ohio. The last two named will probably join the insurrection.

The revolt is said to be really directed against Senator Bailey of Texas and his views, which were held to be too conservative. Senator Martin's followers have a sufficient number of votes to elect him. Senator Shively of Indiana, as vice-chairman of the caucus and acting chairman, to-day called the caucus to meet to-morrow afternoon.
